LEAKY KEG LEADS TO DISCOVERY OF BIG BOOZE SUPPLY

MOONSHINE FLOODING SECOND FLOOR OF GRAND AVENUE BUILDING DESCENDS UPON GUESTS IN COZY RESTAURANT; POLICE ARREST SALOONMAN

While guests were enjoying their dinner about 6:30 o'clock Saturday night in the Cozy Cafe, moonshine whiskey from a keg in the second story of the building started to leak from the ceiling and splashed onto the floor and tables of the restaurant. Investigation by the police who were advised of the descent of the mysterious booze, showed that a large supply of the moon was kept on the second floor of the building and had leaked out of a ten gallon keg flooding portion of the second floor, finally making its way to the ceiling and then to the floor of the restaurant below. Leonard Habeck, one of the proprietors of the saloon next door to the restaurant was arrested by Chief of Police Payne and Officer Berg when he went to the second floor of the building after he had learned that the leak was betraying him. He was arraigned at 9:30 in the evening and admitted to freedom on $500 cash bonds furnished by his father, Wm. H. Habeck, who is now out on bonds for a like offense.

Had Pipe Line

Chief Payne went before Justice of The Peace W. H. Getts who gave him a search warrant and the search was made which revealed that Habeck had a large supply of the booze in a bed room of the Gee building. A ten gallon keg was hooked up to a copper pipe line which descended the wall of the building through a drain pipe and thence to the basement of the Habeck saloon and up under the bar where it was joined with a water pipe. Moonshine was apparently dispensed from the regular water faucet, a shut off for the water being made on the line above the point where the "moon pipe line" came in. It is thought the water backed up in the moonshine line and forced the connection to leak at the barrel. When Chief Payne broke into the moonshine storehouse he discovered the floor covered with fully an inch of the controband booze, which explained the deluge into the Cozy restaurant below.

Get Much Evidence

Besides the ten gallon keg containing four gallons of booze, the police confiscated the following evidence: 20 gallons of the booze contained in four 5 gallon jugs, three empty five gallon kegs which by the odor revealed that they had once been filled with the booze, one fifteen gallon keg which also smelled pretty suspicious, several measuring pails, measuring stick and other bar-room paraphernalia. The proprietor of the restaurant caught a dish pan full of evidence and Officer Panter had Habeck mop up four more gallons from the floor. The moonshine dripped continuously for over three hours after the raid and it was estimated by the police that five or six gallons had leaked out of the barrel.

Arrested Near Evidence

Policeman Berg stationed himself in the building while Chief Payne waited outside. A lad was sent in to notify the Habeck establishment that the moon was betraying their chache and soon Leonard Habeck went up the stairs where he was apprehended by the two officers. He admitted ownership of the booze according to Chief Payne, who took him under arrest and lodged him in jail until 9:30 o'clock when he was arraigned before Judge Getts and admitted to bail. His hearing will be held on Wednesday afternoon.

Chief Payne stated that the Habeck haul was the largest seizure of booze ever made here. When the evidence was carted away in a truck it attracted a large crowd of Saturday night shoppers.

New Ideas

The latest use for a pure bred bull has been found by C. L. Reed, manager of the Palace Theater, who pressed a Holstein bull owned by F. W. Jones, Seneca farmer into the limelight by using him to advertise "Blood and Sand," motion picture featuring Rodolfo Valentino. The torreadore or what ever you call him impersonating the famed Rodolfo waved a red flag but not in front of the Holstein. He went along behind and did a lot of waving. The caravan caused considerable consternation to the timid folks who witnessed the spectacle late Saturday afternoon.

Eastern Europe Prepares For War

Active troop movements are reported near the Polish-Russian frontier. On the left are members of the Red army which Trotzky has under arms. Polish recruits (right) are being drilled for the warfare which may break out at any time.

Kaltenecker To Buy Out Partner In Local Store

Announcement has been made by the firm of Smith & Kaltenecker, proprietors of the shoe store of that name that B. O. Smith, senior member of the firm has disposed of his interest in the business to F. J. Kaltenecker, who will continue to conduct the business under his own name after March 1. Mr. Smith has made no decision for the future and makes no announcement of his plans. He will remain at the store until about March 1.

Formed 4 Years Ago

The firm of Smith & Kaltenecker was formed here about four years ago after Mr. Smith bought out the whole interest of the firm of Smith & Luzenski. Mr. Smith has been identified with the retail shoe business in this city for the past fifteen years and his many friends will regret to learn of his decision to retire from business.

Mr. Kaltenecker who continues the business has lived in this city nearly ten years and has been in the retail shoe business during that time. He is well known here among a large number of people. He has some plans in view for the development of his business and announces that he will specialize in merchandise of medium and high quality grades in the future. No other changes are contemplated. Geo. Bronson who has been in the retail department will continue with Mr. Kaltenecker as will Charles Johnson, who runs the repair department.

G. W. Severns Appointed Special Police Officer

G. W. Severns of Pittsville, county surveyor, has been appointed special police officer for the county by District Attorney R. R. Williams, as provided by the county board under the $5,000 law enforcement appropriation made at the last session.

Mr. Severns will have general supervision over the enforcement of law and order in the county, and will have a corps of inspectors whose duty it will be to visit dance halls throughout the county and the roadhouses in the vicinity of both Wisconsin Rapids and Marshfield to see that they are living up to the regulations.

Buy Confectionery

Leslie Jackson and Robert Kerrins of this city have purchased the confectionery and soda fountain business of John Kemmeter on Grand Ave The new owners will take possession tomorrow morning.

South Has Drawbacks

WISCONSIN FIRST GUERNSEY STATE

ADVANCED REGISTER RECORDS SHOW SUPREMACY; FIVE WOOD COUNTY BREEDERS ACCORDED RECOGNITION

Wisconsin surpasses all the states of the union in the breeding of Guernsey cattle, according to a report of the advanced Register records of the breed for all the states made at the national headquarters at Peterboro, New Hampshire.

Of the 8,955 Advanced Register records held by breeders in thirty-seven states of the union, 2,017 were made in Wisconsin herds. The nearest competitor is New York with but 1,165 records.

Five Wood County Breeders

Wood county, with five breeders who have won Advanced Register recognition, stands high among the counties of the central and northern section of the state. The counties with the largest numbers are Waukesha, Grant, Barron, Milwaukee, Fond du Lac, Eau Claire, St. Croix, and Jefferson.

Following are the Wood County breeders who have been accorded Advanced Register recognition for the quality of their stock:

L. E. Baughman, Marshfield; A. P. Bean, Vesper; J. G. Breidenbach, Marshfield; Clark and Jackson, Vesper; and O. J. Rocheleau, Wisconsin Rapids.

Encourages Excellence

The Advanced Register of the American Guernsey Cattle Club as a system of registry for Guernsey cattle which is based on merit in the production of butterfat. It was established shortly after the invention of the butterfat test by Dr. S. M. Babcock of he Wisconsin Experiment station staff. Its purpose is to encourage the breeding and rearing of Guernsey cattle of superior excellence.

Lauren Warren Charged With Deserting Children

Lauren Warren, charged by his divorced wife, Mrs. Phyllis Warren, with the desertion of their two children, Clarence, 13, and Nina, 15, was brought here from Tomahawk Saturday by Sheriff James Bogie and arraigned before Judge E. H. Pomainville. He waived examination and was bound over to circuit court under bonds of $500, which were secured.

Warren, who was divorced by his wife about six years ago, is alleged to have failed to pay $12 monthly for the support of the children, ordered at that time. He has been employed in a lumber camp near Tomahawk, and was arrested there Saturday. Atty. D. D. Conway appeared for the defendant and District Attorney R. R. Williams for the state.

Two hundred and fifty years ago today a monthly post was established between New York and Boston.

Played Poker During Alleged Murder Attempt

(By Associated Press)

Bastrop, La., Jan. 22—The alleged attempt to assassinate Dr. B. M. McKoin, former mayor of Mer Rouge, which is believed to have prompted the kidnaping and killing of Watt Daniels and Thomas Richards, was brought up at the outset of today's session of the open hearing being conducted by the state into activities of masked men in Morehouse parish, particularly into the slaying of Daniels and Richards.

Sat in Poker Game

C. Wagsdale of Wagster, the first witness, testified he was in a poker game at the home of J. L. Daniels at Mer Rouge the night Dr. McKoin is said to have been fired on from ambush.

Watt Daniels, J. L. Daniels, Thomas Richards, W. C. Andrews, Tom Bell and a man by the name of Hicks were the other players.

Heard Shots Fired

"After I left the game I went to a restaurant," Wagsdale said, "after which I went to my home. While on my way I heard two shots, but did not pay any attention to them. I was going away that night so I left home and walked down to the restaurant again to watch for the train.

"I joined Watt Daniels, Richards, Andrews and the others in the restaurant. I did not hear of any attempt to kill Dr. McKoin until I reached Bonita the next day."

Would Give Milwaukee Officers 4 Year Terms

(By Associated Press)

Madison Wis. Jan. 22—A bill to reenact the section of the Milwaukee election laws which will give all municipal officers a four year term, will be introduced in the lower house of the Wisconsin legislature, by Assemblyman Thomas M. Duncan, tomorrow.

The section of the election law providing for a four year term for mayor treasurer and comptroller was repealed in 1921 but left the term of aldermen at four years.

Would Expel Jews

Vienna, Jan. 22.—Expulsion of the Jews was openly advocated at a demonstration held yesterday at the state capitol. A heavy police guard was present and only a few minor clashes occurred.

Elks To Initiate

Initiation of new members will be held by the local Elks lodge tomorrow evening, following the regular business meeting. A buffet luncheon will be served later in the evening.

ADMINISTRATION'S TAX BILL READY FOR LEGISLATURE

MEASURE DOES AWAY WITH SPECIAL SCHOOL TAXES AND PROPERTY OFFSET; 6 PERCENT RATE FOR CORPORATIONS

(By Associated Press)

Madison, Wis., Jan. 22—An administration general tax bill, estimated to raise $16,000,000 from incomes and to establish an approximate ratio of one dollar of income tax to five of general property taxes in Wisconsin is prepared for introdcction into the legislature, the Associated Press learned today.

Repeals Mill Taxes

This measure, the most important single proposal to be brought before the present session of the legislature repeals the three-eighth mill tax for universities, the seven-tenths mill tax for common schools, the one-sixth mill tax for normal schools and the surtax to raise funds for the teachers insurance and retirement fund.

Property Offset Goes

It removes the present property tax offset to the income tax, leaves exemptions under the income tax at the present level of $800 for a single person and $1200 for a married person, and establishes an entirely new set of rates.

A flat rate of six percent is set by the bill on the next income of all corporations of the state.

Reapportionment of returns from the state income tax as drafted in the administration bill called for distribution of the revenue on the basis of fifty percent to the state; ten percent to the counties, and forty percent to municipalities, in place of the present apportionment of ten percent to the state, twenty percent to the counties and seventy percent to the municipalities.

Prosperous Year In View For Furniture Industry

The furniture industry is apparently entering upon one of the greatest years in its history, according to J. P. Ragan who returned Saturday evening from Chicago where he visited the semi-annual furniture display and market. Mr. Ragan states that there were more buyers present than ever before in the history of the industry, and that many of the leading manufacturers have already sold their entire output for 1923.

One large Illinois concern which manufactures bed davenports stated that prospects indicated that their sales would reach the unprecedented figure of $10,000,000. Furniture prices are reported to be advancing slightly.

Charles A. Behrend Dies At Home Here Saturday

Charles A. Behrend, 540 10th St. South passed away Saturday noon after an illness of several weeks. Shortly before Christmas Mr. Behrend took a severe cold which later developed into meningitis which caused his death.

He was born in Wisconsin Rapids February 11, 1883, which makes him 39 years, 11 months and nine days of age at the time of death. He is survived by his wife, three sons, Orville, Louwin and Lawrence; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Behrend; two brothers, Herman and Charles; and three sisters, Mrs. P. H. Miller, Mrs. Will Schuman and Mrs. Wilbur Saeger, all of this city.

Mr. Behrend was employed for some time as clerk at Johnson & Hill Co., and later did carpenter work until 1921 when he became ill with tuberculosis. Since that time he has been employed as agent here for the Grand Union Tea Company.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the residence and at two o'clock at the East Side Lutheran Church, Rev. F. H. Kretzschmar officiating. Burial will be in Forest Hill Cemetery.

Police Believe Superior Dope Ring Is Broken

(By Associated Press)

Superior, Wis. Jan. 22.—With the arrest of a woman giving the name of "Mrs. Amonson" 24, who police allege is known in the underworld as Gladys McDonald, officials believe the Superior dope ring has been broken.

The woman was taken in a raid Sunday night in a house on John Avenue by state and federal agents in which four women and one man fell into the net spread by the investigators.

Police allege that they have conclusive proof of the sale of dope by the quintet, as well as the members who had been taking the quinine drugs.

It is believed that the Amonson woman was the "brains" of the gang which conducted the dope traffic in Superior.

WINS TOP HONORS AT POULTRY SHOW

DR. V. P. NORTON'S WHITE LEGHORNS MAKE REMARKABLE RECORD AT NATIONAL POULTRY SHOW

Highest honors, not only for White Leghorns but for all breeds of fowls of the Mediterranean division, were won by Dr. V. P. Norton of this city with an entry of eleven single comb White Leghorns in the National Poultry show now in progress in Chicago.

The showing made by Dr. Norton's entries was said by Harry Wolleficer of Vineland, N. J., one of the judges at the show, to be the greatest record ever made by a White Leghorn breeder at the national show and is considered particularly remarkable in view of the fact that at this time of year it is difficult to keep the birds in perfect show condition this far north.

Every Bird Placed

Dr. Norton entered eleven birds in the show, and every one of them placed. Following is a summary of the prizes taken: First cock with one entry, second and third hens with two entries, first and second pullets with two entries, first cockerel with one entry, best colored male, best shaped male, and grand champion male. For his whole display Dr. Norton was awarded the National Association's silver cup.

Grand Champion Male

Dr. Norton's cock was not only adjudged the best male among the 1,500 or more White Leghorn birds at the show, but was also rated as the Grand Champion Mediterranean male. His best pullet, which took first prize among the White Leghorns, was pronounced the best pullet ever shown in Chicago by Louis Stammer, noted poultry artist.

In making almost a complete sweep of the White Leghorn section at the National show, Dr. Norton's birds defeated all the prize winners at the recent Coliseum show at Chicago, and earned practically undisputed claim to primacy among the White Leghorns of the United States and Canada, the leading breeders of both countries being represented at the show.

Selected Birds Himself

In an interview with the Tribune Dr. Norton stated that he was particularly pleased by the showing made by his birds in view of the fact that he personally selected them from his flock of over 400 and conditioned them for the show himself, while most of the prizes usually go to wealthy poultry fanciers who are able to secure experts at high prices to select and prepare the birds for showing.

WORKERS LEAVE MINES ON ORDER OF GOVERNMENT

COAL PRODUCTION CEASES IN ALL MINES HELD BY INVADING TROOPS; RAIL WORKERS HOLD MEETING

(By Associated Press)

Essen, Germany, Jan. 22—Strikes either partial or complete were in progess today in all Ruhr valley mines where troops have been posted by the French. The state mines resumed operations, the troops having been removed from them.

Warned by Berlin that they would be imprisoned if they brought coal to the surface, the miners added their contribution to the nation's policy of passive resistance to the occupation.

Rail Men Meet

Their railroad comrades already on strike in the Bochum-Dortmund district, laid plans for a representative meeting at Elberfeld today to decide whether they too should refuse to assist in transporting German coal to France.

The average Ruhr miner appears to have food to keep his family for three days.

Manager Ahrens of the state mines at Buer, who with other superintendents were arrested by the French last Friday, has been bailed out by mine employes.

French Hold Up Plan

Paris, Jan. 22—Presentation of the new French plan for general reparation, which had been announced would be given to the members of the reparations commission today, has again been delayed.

Discussion of the plan by the commission will not be possible until next week.

Although reasons given for the delay is that more time is necessary to transcribe the plan and to put finishing touches on it the development in the German situation is regarded in reparations circles as the main cause.

(By Associated Press)

London is Nervous

London, Jan. 22.—The critical situation in the Ruhr is a subject of much anxious comment by the morning newspapers which regard the outlook as so dangerous that it is imperative some way of relieving the deadlock be found.

Fears are expressed in some quarters lest Great Britain be forced into some form of active intervention against her will. Some quarters are also fearful that if France pursues her present policy she will be obliged to increase her force in the occupied district, and German will follow with military action which would mean war.

There is a report current that Germany was ready to begin conscription, but no official confirmation of this was apparently coming this morning.

Another report, this from Paris, said that Ludendorf had been in Muenster to watch the military moves, but this also was unconfirmed.

Picture Counter Claims

Berlin, Jan. 22.—A picture of Germany countering claims of France and Belgium with indemnities bill of her own for the Ruhr occupation is already being drawn in official circles here.

On those claims, it is confidently believed that the Reich will not hesitate to fix her own settlement on the pattern afforded by her abligation to the allies.

A long list of claims against France and Belgium by German officials is expected and to these will probably be added the nation's estimate of damages to its sovereignty by the armed occupation.

The trial of 119 striking coal miners charged with disorderly picketing is schedniled to begin today at Edmonton, Alta.

LEAKY KEG LEADS TO DISCOVERY OF BIG BOOZE SUPPLY

While guests were enjoying their dinner about 6:30 o'clock Saturday night in the Cozy Cafe, moonshine whiskey from a keg in the second story of the building started to leak from the ceiling and splashed onto the floor and tables of the restaurant. Investigation by the police who were advised of the descent of the mysterious booze, showed that a large supply of the moon was kept on the second floor of the building and had leaked out of a ten gallon keg flooding portion of the second floor, finally making its way to the ceiling and then to the floor of the restaurant below. Leonard Habeck, one of the proprietors of the saloon next door to the restaurant was arrested by Chief of Police Payne and Officer Berg when he went to the second floor of the building after he had learned that the leak was betraying him. He was arraigned at 9:30 in the evening and admitted to freedom on $500 cash bonds furnished by his father, Wm. H. Habeck, who is now out on bonds for a like offense.

Had Pipe Line

Chief Payne went before Justice of The Peace W. H. Getts who gave him a search warrant and the search was made which revealed that Habeck had a large supply of the booze in a bed room of the Gee building. A ten gallon keg was hooked up to a copper pipe line which descended the wall of the building through a drain pipe and thence to the basement of the Habeck saloon and up under the bar where it was joined with a water pipe. Moonshine was apparently dispensed from the regular water faucet, a shut off for the water being made on the line above the point where the "moon pipe line" came in. It is thought the water backed up in the moonshine line and forced the connection to leak at the barrel. When Chief Payne broke into the moonshine storehouse he discovered the floor covered with fully an inch of the contraband booze, which explained the deluge into the Cozy restaurant below.

Get Much Evidence

Besides the ten gallon keg containing four gallons of booze, the police confiscated the following evidence: 20 gallons of the booze contained in four 5 gallon jugs, three empty five gallon kegs which by the odor revealed that they had once been filled with the booze, one fifteen gallon keg which also smelled pretty suspicious, several measuring pails, measuring stick and other bar-room paraphernalia. The proprietor of the restaurant caught a dish pan full of evidence and Officer Panter had Habeck mop up four more gallons from the floor. The moonshine dripped continuously for over three hours after the raid and it was estimated by the police that five or six gallons had leaked out of the barrel.

Arrested Near Evidence

Policeman Berg stationed himself in the building while Chief Payne waited outside. A lad was sent in to notify the Habeck establishment that the moon was betraying their chache and soon Leonard Habeck went up the stairs where he was apprehended by the two officers. He admitted ownership of the booze according to Chief Payne, who took him under arrest and lodged him in jail until 9:30 o'clock when he was arraigned before Judge Getts and admitted to bail. His hearing will be held on Wednesday afternoon.

Chief Payne stated that the Habeck haul was the largest seizure of booze ever made here. When the evidence was carted away in a truck it attracted a large crowd of Saturday night shoppers.

Lauren Warren Charged With Deserting Children

Lauren Warren, charged by his divorced wife, Mrs. Phyllis Warren, with the desertion of their two children, Clarence, 13, and Nina, 15, was brought here from Tomahawk Saturday by Sheriff James Bogie and arraigned before Judge E. H. Pomainville. He waived examination and was bound over to circuit court under bonds of $500, which were secured.

Warren, who was divorced by his wife about six years ago, is alleged to have failed to pay $12 monthly for the support of the children, ordered at that time. He has been employed in a lumber camp near Tomahawk, and was arrested there Saturday. Atty. D. D. Conway appeared for the defendant and District Attorney R. R. Williams for the state.

Two hundred and fifty years ago today a monthly post was established between New York and Boston.

Played Poker During Alleged Murder Attempt

(By Associated Press)

Bastrop, La., Jan. 22—The alleged attempt to assassinate Dr. B. M. McKoin, former mayor of Mer Rouge, which is believed to have prompted the kidnaping and killing of Watt Daniels and Thomas Richards, was brought up at the outset of today's session of the open hearing being conducted by the state into activities of masked men in Morehouse parish, particularly into the slaying of Daniels and Richards.

Sat in Poker Game

C. Wagsdale of Wagster, the first witness, testified he was in a poker game at the home of J. L. Daniels at Mer Rouge the night Dr. McKoin is said to have been fired on from ambush.

Watt Daniels, J. L. Daniels, Thomas Richards, W. C. Andrews, Tom Bell and a man by the name of Hicks were the other players.

Heard Shots Fired

"After I left the game I went to a restaurant," Wagsdale said, "after which I went to my home. While on my way I heard two shots, but did not pay any attention to them. I was going away that night so I left home and walked down to the restaurant again to watch for the train.

"I joined Watt Daniels, Richards, Andrews and the others in the restaurant. I did not hear of any attempt to kill Dr. McKoin until I reached Bonita the next day."

Would Give Milwaukee Officers 4 Year Terms

(By Associated Press)

Madison Wis. Jan. 22—A bill to reenact the section of the Milwaukee election laws which will give all municipal officers a four year term, will be introduced in the lower house of the Wisconsin legislature by Assemblyman Thomas M. Duncan, tomorrow.

The section of the election law providing for a four year term for mayor treasurer and comptroller was repealed in 1921 but left the term of aldermen at four years.

ADMINISTRATION'S TAX BILL READY FOR LEGISLATURE

MEASURE DOES AWAY WITH SPECIAL SCHOOL TAXES AND PROPERTY OFFSET; 6 PERCENT RATE FOR CORPORATIONS

(By Associated Press)

Madison, Wis., Jan. 22—An administration general tax bill, estimated to raise $16,000,000 from incomes and to establish an approximate ratio of one dollar of income tax to five of general property taxes in Wisconsin is prepared for introdcction into the legislature, the Associated Press learned today.

Repeals Mill Taxes

This measure, the most important single proposal to be brought before the present session of the legislature repeals the three-eighth mill tax for universities, the seven-tenths mill tax for common schools, the one-sixth mill tax for normal schools and the surtax to raise funds for the teachers insurance and retirement fund.

Property Offset Goes

It removes the present property tax offset to the income tax, leaves exemptions under the income tax at the present level of $800 for a single person and $1200 for a married person, and establishes an entirely new set of rates.

A flat rate of six percent is set by the bill on the next income of all corporations of the state.

Reapportionment of returns from the state income tax as drafted in the administration bill called for distribution of the revenue on the basis of fifty percent to the state; ten percent to the counties, and forty percent to municipalities, in place of the present apportionment of ten percent to the state, twenty percent to the counties and seventy percent to the municipalities.

Prosperous Year In View For Furniture Industry

The furniture industry is apparently entering upon one of the greatest years in its history, according to J. R. Ragan who returned Saturday evening from Chicago where he visited the semi-annual furniture display and market. Mr. Ragan states that there were more buyers present than ever before in the history of the industry, and that many of the leading manufacturers have already sold their entire output for 1923.

One large Illinois concern which manufactures bed davenports stated that prospects indicated that their sales would reach the unprecedented figure of $10,000,000. Furniture prices are reported to be advancing slightly.

Charles A. Behrend Dies At Home Here Saturday

Charles A. Behrend, 540 10th St. South passed away Saturday noon after an illness of several weeks. Shortly before Christmas Mr. Behrend took a severe cold which later developed into meningitis which caused his death.

He was born in Wisconsin Rapids February 11, 1883, which makes him 39 years, 11 months and nine days of age at the time of death. He is survived by his wife, three sons, Orville, Louwin and Lawrence; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Behrend; two brothers, Herman and Charles; and three sisters, Mrs. P. H. Miller, Mrs. Will Schuman and Mrs. Wilbur Saeger, all of this city.

Mr. Behrend was employed for some time as clerk at Johnson & Hill Co., and later did carpenter work until 1921 when he became ill with tuberculosis. Since that time he has been employed as agent here for the Grand Union Tea Company.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the residence and at two o'clock at the East Side Lutheran Church, Rev. F. H. Kretzschmar officiating. Burial will be in Forest Hill Cemetery.

Police Believe Superior Dope Ring Is Broken

(By Associated Press)

Superior, Wis. Jan. 22.—With the arrest of a woman giving the name of "Mrs. Amonson" 24, who police allege is known in the underworld as Gladys McDonald, officials believe the Superior dope ring has been broken.

The woman was taken in a raid Sunday night in a house on John Avenue by state and federal agents in which four women and one man fell into the net spread by the investigators.

Police allege that they have conclusive proof of the sale of dope by the quintet, as well as the members who had sheen taking the quinine drugs.

It is believed that the Amonson woman was the "brains" of the gang which conducted the dope traffic in Superior.

Highest honors, not only for White Leghorns but for all breeds of fowls of the Mediterranean division, were won by Dr. V. P. Norton of this city with an entry of eleven single comb White Leghorns in the National Poultry show now in progress in Chicago.

The showing made by Dr. Norton's entries was said by Harry Wolleficer of Vineland, N. J., one of the judges at the show, to be the greatest record ever made by a White Leghorn breeder at the national show, and is considered particularly remarkable in view of the fact that at this time of year it is difficult to keep the birds in perfect show condition this far north.

Every Bird Placed

Dr. Norton entered eleven birds in the show, and every one of them placed. Following is a summary of the prizes taken: First cock with one entry, second and third hens with two entries, first and second pullets with two entries, first cockerel with one entry, best colored male, best shaped male, and grand champion male. For his whole display Dr. Norton was awarded the National Association's silver cup.

Grand Champion Male

Dr. Norton's cock was not only adjudged the best male among the 1,500 or more White Leghorn birds at the show, but was also rated as the Grand Champion Mediterranean male. His best pullet, which took first prize among the White Leghorns, was pronounced the best pullet ever shown in Chicago by Louis Stammer, noted poultry artist.

In making almost a complete sweep of the White Leghorn section at the National show, Dr. Norton's birds defeated all the prize winners at the recent Coliseum show at Chicago, and earned practically undisputed claim to primacy among the White Leghorns of the United States and Canada, the leading breeders of both countries being represented at the show.

Selected Birds Himself

In an interview with the Tribune Dr. Norton stated that he was particularly pleased by the showing made by his birds in view of the fact that he personally selected them from his flock of over 400 and conditioned them for the show himself, while most of the prizes usually go to wealthy poultry fanciers who are able to secure experts at high prices to select and prepare the birds for showing.

WORKERS LEAVE MINES ON ORDER OF GOVERNMENT

COAL PRODUCTION CEASES IN ALL MINES HELD BY INVADING TROOPS; RAIL WORKERS HOLD MEETING

(By Associated Press)

Essen, Germany, Jan. 22—Strikes either partial or complete were in progess today in all Ruhr valley mines where troops have been posted by the French. The state mines resumed operations, the troops having been removed from them.

Warned by Berlin that they would be imprisoned if they brought coal to the surface, the miners added their contribution to the nation's policy of passive resistance to the occupation.

Rail Men Meet

Their railroad comrades already on strike in the Bochum-Dortmund district, laid plans for a representative meeting at Elberfeld today to decide whether they too should refuse to assist in transporting German coal to France.

The average Ruhr miner appears to have food to keep his family for three days.

Manager Ahrens of the state mines at Buer, who with other superintendents were arrested by the French last Friday, has been bailed out by mine employes.

French Hold Up Plan

Paris, Jan. 22—Presentation of the new French plan for general reparation, which had been announced would be given to the members of the reparations commission today, has again been delayed.

Discussion of the plan by the commission will not be possible until next week.

Although reasons given for the delay is that more time is necessary to transcribe the plan and to put finishing touches on it the development in the German situation is regarded in reparations circles as the main cause.

(By Associated Press)

London is Nervous

London, Jan. 22.—The critical situation in the Ruhr is a subject of much anxious comment by the morning newspapers which regard the outlook as so dangerous that it is imperative some way of relieving the deadlock be found.

Fears are expressed in some quarters lest Great Britain be forced into some form of active intervention against her will. Some quarters are also fearful that if France pursues her present policy she will be obliged to increase her force in the occupied district, and German will follow with military action which would mean war.

There is a report current that Germany was ready to begin conscription, but no official confirmation of this was apparently coming this morning.

Another report, this from Paris, said that Ludendorf had been in Muenster to watch the military moves, but this also was unconfirmed.

Picture Counter Claims

Berlin, Jan. 22.—A picture of Germany countering claims of France and Belgium with indemnities bill of her own for the Ruhr occupation is already being drawn in official circles here.

On those claims, it is confidently believed that the Reich will not hesitate to fix her own settlement on the pattern afforded by her obligation to the allies.

A long list of claims against France and Belgium by German officials is expected and to these will probably be added the nation's estimate of damages to its sovereignty by the armed occupation.

The trial of 119 striking coal miners charged with disorderly picketing is scheduled to begin today at Edmonton, Alta.

NEW BRAND OF COWARDS

The latest brand of cowards is that of the motorist who hits or runs over a person and then drives away at top speed to leave his victim die. This brand is increasing in cities throughout the country and is particularly noticeable in Milwaukee where there have been numerous accidents and the drivers have run off to cover without having their identity discovered. If there is a meaner man in the world than the man who will do such a trick, somebody please find him.

THE MOTOR PROBLEM

The problem of transportation, one phase of which is revealed in the troubles in Milwaukee where motorists who run down pedestrians, and then leave their victims suffer their fate, is a growing menace to the country. Automobiles are wonderful vehicles for recreation, business or general transportation. Through the motor car our national life is being constantly altered. Yet with all the big advantages, all the pleasure and business efficiency, the transportation problem grows and becomes more complex. Traffic laws, once enacted are becoming obsolete, highway building and maintenance is becoming a real problem, public safety is another important phase, in fact almost all laws will in some way have the problem of transportation influencing them. It is said that Wood County can assimilate fifteen thousand more automobiles. If so what will be the effect upon our county and the cities of our county. Partial recognition of the problem was made at the last county board session, when provision was made for patrolmen to see that the speed ordinance is enforced. Unless there is some individual responsibility among motor car owners and drivers there will be necessity for new legislation and new ordinances to handle all these problems coming from the increase in motorized traffic.

HOME RULE

The home rule for Wisconsin municipalities now before the legislature is meeting with general approval all over the state. It is proposed in the bill to give Wisconsin cities and municipalities the right to enact certain ordinances and laws which would otherwise require an act of the legislature. It localizes the responsibility with the cities and frees them from red tape of the legislature which meets only every two years. Such a law is especially desirable to Milwaukee and the larger cities and will no doubt find favor in the smaller centers. The bill has been approved by the League of Municipalities and other state civic organizations. While no bill is perfect, it is regarded that this bill should it be passed by the legislature would be better than any of the previous bills offered in years passed.

FOR STATE POLICE

Special [illegible] in the legislature there is a bill being fostered by Sen. W. L. Smith of Neillsville, Wood County's [illegible] which we hope will be passed. It calls for the establishing of a state constabulary, or state mounted police force. To show how it would serve the mounted police would offer [illegible] county hiring special police to prevent speeding and other violations. It is because there is no state police organization that Wood County is now paying for such a similar service. Divided over the entire state the cost would be very small compared with the protection afforded. Write your representative, E. E. Royce, and ask him to support the measure.

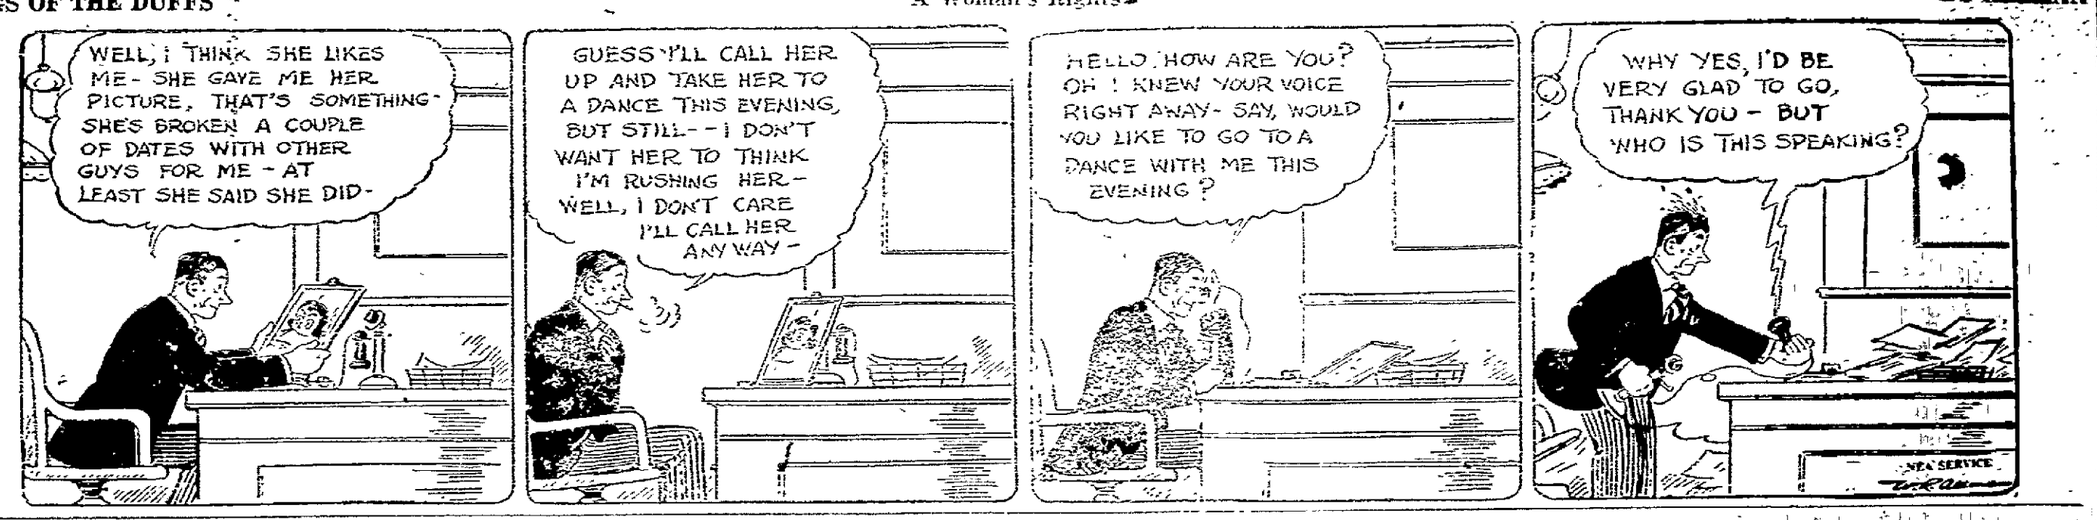
DOINGS OF THE DUFFS

A Woman's Rights

BY ALLMAN



Triumphs of M. Jonquelle

by MELVILLE DAVISSON POST

© 1922 NEA Service, Inc

"Let us assume that there are three ways in which DERNBURG PASHA might have been killed," said M. JONQUELLE, greatest of French detectives to the Turkish Envoy who was demanding reparations for the murder in Paris of his fellow citizen.

Dernburg had been found dead in the library of this house. His throat was slashed and a trail of blood on the white squares of the checkered marble floor apparently indicated the escape of the assassin.

"I might have killed him," said M. Jonquelle. "You might have killed him. He might have been killed by a man no longer living."

The last theory startled the Envoy.

Go on With the Story

CHAPTER III

"It is a conceivable theory," remarked Monsieur Jonquelle, "that Dernburg Pasha was struck down by a hand that we can no longer consider to be living.

"But if you please we will take up these theories in their order. Did I murder Dernburg Pasha? It is an interesting hypothesis, and I should be glad to consider it at some length. But it seems to require no extended deductions to conclude it. We have shown that the mysterious visitor who called on Dernburg last night was not his assassin, because the evidences which seem so to indicate were laid down by design and did not come about by accident. They were laid down by the instigation of some person, some person who wished to establish that the visitor was the assassin. But the visitor himself could not have wished to establish that he was the assassin, consequently he could not have made these indicatory evidences, and therefore he was not the assassin of Dernburg Pasha."

He paused.

"And now, monsieur, as I am the visitor who called on Dernburg Pasha last night, it must be clear that I was not the assassin that struck him down. These conclusions may seem to interlock with a slight obscurity. But if you reflect upon them, monsieur, you will observe that they are sound and convincing."

There was a moment's silence. The Oriental did not speak, and the Prefect of Police continued.

"Now, monsieur, we approach the second hypothesis: did you murder Dernburg Pasha?"

"Here, monsieur, one finds himself confronted with certain difficulties. You took charge of this house the moment it was ascertained the man was dead."

The Envoy interrupted:

"I did, monsieur. As a representative of the Turkish Government it was my duty to take charge at once of the property of one of its murdered citizens. I came at once and took charge of it."

"That is true, monsieur," continued the Prefect of Police. "You came as you had the right to do, and you took over this house as it was your duty to do. And from this base we may go forward with the hypothesis in its first inquiry—namely, did I create the false evidences on the floor of this drawing room, or did you, or did the agency not now living undertake it?"

"Now, monsieur, let us consider these suggestions in a reverse order. If Dernburg Pasha was struck down by a hand not moving alive in the world after he died on the floor of the library yonder, then such a hand could not have gone forward with the manufacture of these false evidences of his assassination, and we may dismiss it. I cannot have manufactured them, monsieur, because it is not conceivable that one undertaking the assassination would construct evidence of his crime to convict himself. Therefore, monsieur, by elimination, we seem to arrive at the conclusion that it was you who manufactured them."

The Envoy's face seemed to form itself into a sort of plastic mask.

"Now," Jonquelle went on, "if you manufactured them, monsieur, it was with a deliberate object. That object would be to fasten the crime upon another. But one does not undertake to fasten a crime upon another without an adequate reason in himself. Now, what reason, monsieur, could you have had for wishing to establish that I, who called upon Dernburg late last night, had accomplished his murder and fled, carefully dropping splotches of blood on the white squares of the floor of this drawing room, and escaping over a wall covered with a coating of dust which I did not remove? What could have been your object in undertaking to establish these facts, if you were yourself guiltless of his death?"

The man's reply was quite simple and without emotion.

"Why, monsieur, should I wish to assassinate Dernburg Pasha?"

"Did you not wish to take over this house?" replied the Perfect of Police. "And if you took it over, you would take it over with what it contains. Let me show you, monsieur, the treasure that it contains!"

He stooper over, slipped the point of a knife-blade under one of the large white marble squares in the drawing room floor and lifted it up.

These squares had been laid down on wooden sills, nailed together and floored over underneath. Each square had therefore a sort of wooden pocket beneath it. This wooden pocket under the white square that Monsieur Jonquelle removed, was filled with gold-pieces.

The Oriental, bending over, made a profound exclamation of surprise. He remained immovable in an overwhelming wonder. That the man was amazed at something of which, up to that moment, he had not had the slightest conception, was clearly evident.

Monsieur Jonquelle permitted the marble square to go back into its place, and he returned to his chair. The Oriental sat down beyond him, speechless in his amazement. The Prefect of Police continued to speak as though the man's concern were not a thing which he had observed.

"And so you see, monsieur, we have here the motive, the opportunity and the construction of these false evidences, to indicate that you were the assassin of Dernburg Pasha. And again I beg you to observe how fatal it is to proceed with indicatory evidences when one wishes to establish a theory. It is fortunate monsieur, that it is I who considered these evidences against you, for it is I who know that Dernburg Pasha was dead when you arrived in this house."

"And from the wound in his throat. I knew at once what hand it was that inflicted it—a hand not now living!"

He paused.

"The hand of the dead man!" echoed the Oriental. "You mean the hand of a dead man?"

"I mean the hand of the dead Dernburg Pasha," replied the Prefect.

"The wound began heavily on the left side and tailed off to the right. That is the slash of a suicide. Death wounds, inflicted by one intent on taking his own life, are always inflicted on the left side, because they are undertaken with the right hand, and if they are done with a knife, they begin with a heavy incision that tails out as the kife is drawn to the right—as the strength of the person undertaking to inflict with a sharp instrument, have always these evidential signs. They cannot be mistaken."

Monsieur Jonquelle arose.

"Let me clear this mystery," he said. "Dernburg Pasha was one of the most accomplished counterfeiters in the world.

He opened his hand.

"This device, which looks like an alabaster box, is a mold made of plaster for the purpose of counterfeiting one of the largest gold coins of the French currency. Dernburg came here, took this house, carried forward his undertaking until he had stored the squares under this drawing-room with false coins. Then when he had finished—when he had got the coins molded, gold-plated and hidden, ready for the business of their distribution. I called on him last night! It was my voice that was heard outside. I showed him that he was at the end of his tether—that the house was guarded; and I came away leaving open to him the only escape he had. He effected that escape with a razor drawn across his throat."

Monsieur Jonquelle paused, his voice firm, even and unhurried.

Another M. Jonquelle story, "The Great Cypher," will begin in our next issue.

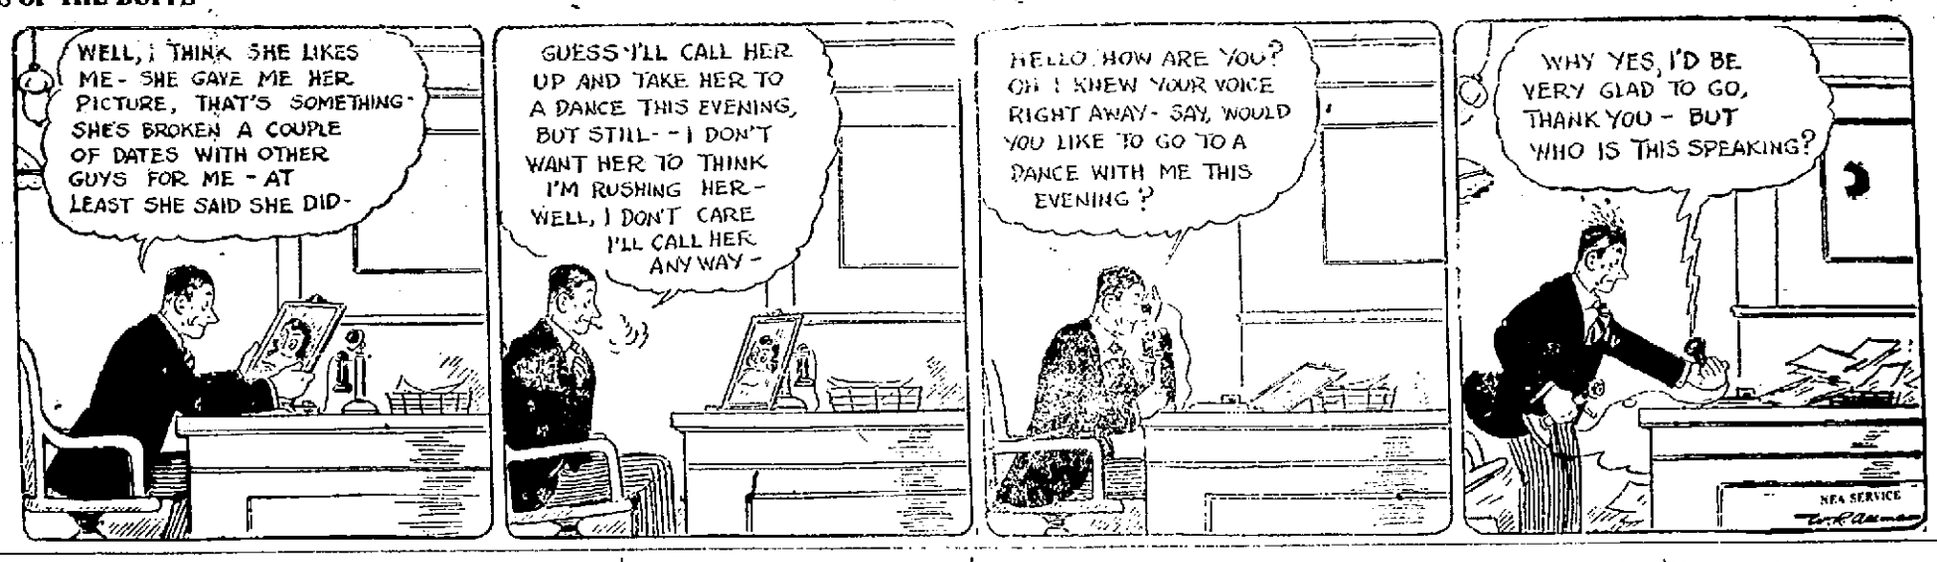
DOINGS OF THE DUFFS — A Woman's Rights — BY ALLMAN



Triumphs of M. Jonquelle

by MELVILLE DAVISSON POST

© 1922 NEA Service, Inc

"Let us assume that there are three ways in which DERNBURG PASHA might have been killed," said M. JONQUELLE, greatest of French detectives to the Turkish Envoy who was demanding reparations for the murder in Paris of his fellow citizen.

Dernburg had been found dead in the library of this house. His throat was slashed and a trail of blood on the white squares of the checkered marble floor apparently indicated the escape of the assassin.

"I might have killed him," said M. Jonquelle. "You might have killed him. He might have been killed by a man no longer living."

The last theory startled the Envoy.

Go on With the Story

CHAPTER III

"It is a conceivable theory," remarked Monsieur Jonquelle, "that Dernburg Pasha was struck down by a hand that we can no longer consider to be living.

"But if you please we will take up these theories in their order. Did I murder Dernburg Pasha? It is an interesting hypothesis, and I should be glad to consider it at some length. But it seems to require no extended deductions to conclude it. We have shown that the mysterious visitor who called on Dernburg last night was not his assassin, because the evidences which seem so to indicate were laid down by design and did not come about by accident. They were laid down by the intention of some person, some person who wished to establish that this visitor was the assassin. But the visitor himself could not have wished to establish that he was the assassin, consequently he could not have made these indicatory evidences, and therefore he was not the assassin of Dernburg Pasha."

He paused.

"And now, monsieur, as I was the visitor who called on Dernburg Pasha last night, it must be clear that I was not the assassin that struck him down. These conclusions may seem to interlock with a slight obscurity. But if you reflect upon them, monsieur, you will observe that they are sound and convincing."

There was a moment's silence. The Oriental did not speak, and the Prefect of Police continued.

"Now, monsieur, we approach the second hypothesis; did you murder Dernburg Pasha?"

"Here, monsieur, one finds himself confronted with certain difficulties. You took charge of this house the moment it was ascertained the man was dead."

The Envoy interrupted:

"I did, monsieur. As a representative of the Turkish Government it was my duty to take charge at once of the property of one of its murdered citizens. I came at once and took charge of it."

"That is true, monsieur," continued the Prefect of Police. "You came as you had the right to do, and you took over this house as it was your duty to do. And from this base we may go forward with the hypothesis in its first inquiry—namely, did I create these false evidences on the floor of this drawing room, or did you, or did the agency not now living undertake it?"

If Dernburg Pasha was struck down by a hand not moving alive in the world after he died on the floor of the library yonder, then such a hand could not have gone forward with the manufacture of these false evidences of his assassination, and we may dismiss it. I cannot have manufactured them, monieur, because it is not conceivable that one undertaking the assassination would construct evidence of his crime to convict himself. Therefore, monsieur, by elimination, we seem to arrive at the conclusion that it was you who manufactured them."

The Envoy's face seemed to form itself into a sort of plastic mask.

"Now," Jonquelle went on, "if you manufactured them, monsieur, it was with a deliberate object. That object would be to fasten the crime upon another. But one does not undertake to fasten a crime upon another without an adequate reason in himself. Now, what reason, monsieur, could you have had for wishing to establish that I, who called upon Dernburg late last night, had accomplished his murder and fled, carefully dropping splotches of blood on the white squares of the floor of this drawing room, and escaping over a wall covered with a coating of dust which I did not remove? PALACE TONIGHT

You will see William Duncan in real film thrill.

In making the big thrill for "When Danger Smiles," the William Duncan picture, the star is dragged at the end of a rope attached to a speeding horse. He is carried several hundred yards before a shot fired by the heroine severs the rope. In making this sequence William Duncan was severly bruised about the legs and arms, but persisted in continuing his work, and the next day just to show he was suffering no pains from his experience did a buck and wing dance in the set.

William Duncan is an exceptionally good buck and wing dancer and in his younger days won an enviable reputation on the vaudeville stage in a dancing act.

Tomorrow, Tuesday and Thursday

With matinees on Tuesday and Wednesday, we will present one of the years big pictures and if you think facing wild bull soft? Guess again.

Movie acting is certainly a soft job! F'r instance, all Rodolph Valentino had to do for a solid month was to get out in front of a mean bull and wave a red cape in his face. Easy—sure,—but Mr. Valentino wasn't bothered with a tremendous lot of company during the time required for these warm and interesting scenes.

"Blood and Sand", Mr. Valentino's Paramount starring picture which opens at the Palace threatre for three days beginning tomorrow, was adapted by June Mathis from the Vicente Blasco Ibanez story of Spanish life. It is a Fred Niblo production, directed by the maker of "The Three Musketeers."

Scenes in the bull-ring at Madrid with Mr. Valentino as a popular torador provides many opeprtunities for sensationally dramatic moments. The color and nerve of the famous Spanish sport are shown minus the features that are repellant to American ideas. "Gallardo" is considered to be Valentino's most vivid and colorful characteriation since his "Julio" of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse."

LAST SHOWING OF "SMUDGE" THE CHAS. RAY FILM AT IDEAL

This evening those who were not able to get to The Ideal last night to enjoy Charles Ray in his new First National picture "Smudge" will be able to see it either at 7 or 8:40. This is a funny little offering, a story of a California newspaper war for and against the dirty method which once obtained in the fall to save the orange crop from frost. Charles Ray plays well the idealistic lad just out of college to whom his father gives one of Citrona's two daily papers with instructions to wage unrelenting war against the "anti-smudgers" who are mostly women who don't like to have their finery ruined by soot every autumn. But Ora Carew in the role of the daughter of the leading "Anti-smudger" takes a hand in the game and things not on the program begin to happen. Young Stanton changes front and the orange growers buy the support of the opposition paper whose publisher hires a bunch of thugs to take care of young Stanton. The thugs win the first round but of course the tables are turned and after a lot of excitement the anti-smudgers win, thanks to the work of the publisher of the Citrona Citien. Not a heavy offering but dandy entertainment and plenty of pep, thrills and fun. Better take a couple of hours off tonight and see it.

"THE KENTUCKY DERBY"—GREATEST OF RACING DRAMAS COMES TO THE IDEAL THEATER TUESDAY

A real honest-to-goodness horse racing play or picture is always popular and many readers may remember when "The Whip" came to town and was welcomed with enthusiasm. Now comes the greatest racing drama ever filmed with scenes of the real Kentucky Derby last year when Morvich won his most spectacular victory. It is a Universal-Jewel film version of the famous old stage play "The Suburban," directed by one who knows motion pictures from the very beginning—King Baggot, and the star is none other than that young Apollo of the screen, Reginald Denny, whose fame was won in that popular series of H. C. Witwer magazine stories, "The Leather Pushers." The manager of The Ideal Theatre, Mr. Grunwell, states that before buying "The Kentucky Derby" at the long price asked for its rental, he personally went to see Ralph Wettstein, manager of Ascher's Merrill Theatre in Milwaukee and asked him if it would be worth while to secure this attraction. "By all means" was Mr. Wettstein's enthusiastic reply. "I played it on the week before Christmas and not only did it do the most business of any picture on the street but it did a very profitable business and the head office tells me that of the entire Ascher string, The Merrill was the only theatre that made a profit that week and business held up clear to the end of the run." There will be matinees on Tuesday and Wednesday only from 2:30 to 5 p.m. Nights at 7 and 9.

THEATRES

PALACE TONIGHT

You will see William Duncan in real film thrill.

In making the big thrill for "When Danger Smiles," the William Duncan picture, the star is dragged at the end of a rope attached to a speeding horse. He is carried several hundred yards before a shot fired by the heroine severs the rope. In making this sequence William Duncan was severly bruised about the legs and arms, but persisted in continuing his work, and the next day just to show he was suffering no pains from his experience did a buck and wing dance in the set.

William Duncan is an exceptionally good buck and wing dancer and in his younger days won an enviable reputation on the vaudeville stage in a dancing act.

Tomorrow, Tuesday and Thursday

With mattinees on Tuesday and Wednesday, we will present one of the years big pictures and if you think facing wild bull soft? Guess again.

Movie acting is certainly a soft job! F'r instance, all Rodolph Valentino had to do for a solid month was to get out in front of a mean bull and wave a red cape in his face. Easy—sure,—but Mr. Valentino wasn't bothered with a tremendous lot of company during the time required for these warm and interesting scenes.

"Blood and Sand", Mr. Valentino's Paramount starring picture which opens at the Palace threatre for three days beginning tomorrow, was adapted by June Mathis from the Vicente Blasco Ibanez story of Spanish life. It is a Fred Niblo production, directed by the maker of "The Three Musketeers."

Scenes in the bull-ring at Madrid with Mr. Valentino as a popular torador provides many opoprtunities for sensationally dramatic moments. The color and nerve of the famous Spanish sport are shown minus the features that are repellant to American ideas. "Gallardo" is considered to be Valentino's most vivid and colorful characteriation since his "Julio" of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse."

LAST SHOWING OF "SMUDGE" THE CLAS. RAY FILM AT IDEAL

This evening those who were not able to get to The Ideal last night to enjoy Charles Ray in his new First National picture "Smudge" will be able to see it either at 7 or 8:40. This is a funny little offering, a story of a California newspaper war for and against the dirty method which once obtained in the fall to save the orange crop from frost. Charles Ray plays well the idealistic lad just out of college to whom his father gives one of Citrona's two daily papers with instructions to wage unrelenting war against the "anti-smudgers" who are mostly women who don't like to have their finery ruined by soot every autumn. But Ora Carew in the role of the daughter of the leading "Anti-smudger" takes a hand in the game and things not on the program begin to happen. Young Stanton changes front and the orange growers buy the support of the opposition paper whose publisher hires a bunch of thugs to take care of young Stanton. The thugs win the first round but of course the tables are turned and after a lot of excitement the anti-smudgers win, thanks to the work of the publisher of the Citrona Citien. Not a heavy offering but dandy entertainment and plenty of pep, thrills and fun. Better take a couple of hours off tonight and see it.

"THE KENTUCKY DERBY"—GREATEST OF RACING DRAMAS COMES TO THE IDEAL THEATER TUESDAY

A real honest-to-goodness horse racing play or picture is always popular and many readers may remember when "The Whip" came to town and was welcomed with enthusiasm. Now comes the greatest racing drama ever filmed with scenes of the real Kentucky Derby last year when Morvich won his most spectacular victory. It is a Universal-Jewel film version of the famous old stage play "The Suburban," directed by one who knows motion pictures from the very beginning—King Baggot, and the star is none other than that young Apollo of the screen, Reginald Denny, whose fame was won in that popular series of H. C. Witwer magazine stories. "The Leather Pushers." The manager of The Ideal Theatre, Mr. Grawell, states that before buying "The Kentucky Derby" at the long price asked for its rental, he personally went to see Ralph Wettstein, manager of Ascher's Merrill Theatre in Milwaukee and asked him if it would be worth while to secure this attraction. "By all means" was Mr. Wettstein's enthusiastic reply. "I played it on the week before Christmas and not only did it do the most business of any picture on the street but it did a very profitable business and the head office tells me that of the entire Ascher string, The Merrill was the only theatre that made a profit that week and business held up clear to the end of the run." There will be matinees on Tuesday and Wednesday only from 2:30 to 5 p.m. Nights at 7 and 9.

TRI-CITIES DOWN BRIGHT STARS BY SCORE OF 24 TO 9

GIRL TEAM FURNISHES ENTERTAINMENT FOR BIG CROWD; GLOBE TROTTERS AND CARDINALS COMING

The Tri-Cities had a mean job on their hands yesterday afternoon, but managed to pull through unscathed with a 24 to 9 victory over the Bright Star girls from Milwaukee. The biggest crowd of the season packed the Amusement Hall to witness the fray, which though it bore little semblance to basketball was amusing at times.

Ladies Fail to Score

Without any desire to take away any credit from the ladies the nine points with which the visitors were credited were all scored by their coach who took the floor with them in place of one of the girls who was reported unable to play because of injuries.

The Tri-Cities score was kept low by the hesitancy which the players displayed in pressing their attack through the visitors' defense. The girls had a way of getting in the way and with an apparent desire to avoid too forcible contact the Tri-City athletes traveled slowly.

Tough Game Coming

Two of the toughest games of the season are scheduled for the coming Thursday and Sunday. The Minneapolis Globe Trotters come here for the first game and Sunday the Fond du Lac Cardinals, conquerors of the Milwaukee Bright Spots, the Beloit Fairies and other crack fives will be here.

The team will hold an open practice in preparation for the Minneapolis game Tuesday evening and fans are invited to come and see the team work out. Bill Smith will be on hand for the game, and will probably play regularly with the team in all the important games the rest of the season.

Minneapolis, Minn.—The Badger basketball five kept its Big Ten record clean Saturday night by sending Minnesota's cagers down to their second defeat in an many conference starts, 24 to 12. Close guarding by Wisconsin and general ineffectiveness in every department but tossing free-throws were responsible for the verdict.

The Gophers worked with Ray Eklund, star forward, back in the line-up, but he was sadly off form and failed to score from the floor. He counted eight of his team's point from the foul line and missed four.

WHITFIELD SAYS IT PUZZLES HIM

Expresses Wonder at the Prompt Way in Which Tanlac Completely Overcame Stomach Trouble.

"Tanlac has fixed me up to where I feel fine even when I'm out on the job in zero weather," said F. E. Whitfield, Milwaukee, Wis., a track-worker for the Milwaukee Electric Railway, recently.

"Before taking Tanlac, my stomach was so upset even the sight of food would often make me sick. A man doing my kind of work needs lots of good food like beefsteak, potatoes, etc., to keep going, but even the lightest meal caused me awful soutness, cramps, and bloating and nearly cut off my breath. I was constipated and bilious and sometimes had dizzy spells and was weak and nervous all over. Often I went to work mornings feeling like I could not hold out till noon.

"How Tanlac can do the wonderful things it does puzzles me. Why, it drove away every trace of these troubles, and now I am eating anything, and feeling as strong and husky as I did when I was twenty-one."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35-million bottles sold.—Advertisement.

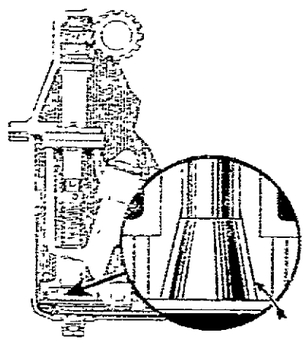
The Standard of Comparison



Coldest weather cannot impair the efficiency of the Buick oil pump. This pump is so designed that should the pump gears be held immovable through freezing, the shaft revolves within the gear. The heat thus generated thaws out the frozen parts, restoring gear action and oil flow to normal.

Unusual Winter Comfort

Buick reputation for anticipating your ideas of comfort for all weathers, performance and utility, with models of advanced design is strikingly upheld in Buick open models.

Examination shows how the thoughtful application of simple, practical methods of sealing curtain and windshield joints against wind, cold and rain has resulted in a welcome degree of winter and early spring comfort you never thought possible for an open car.

BOWLING

By taking three straight from the Sure-Shots while the Normingtons were only winning two out of three from the Foundries, the Highways gained undisputed leadership in the major league. In the minor league the Buicks broke their tie with the Murphies for first place by taking three straight from the Creameries.

TRI-CITIES DOWN BRIGHT STARS BY SCORE OF 24 TO 9

GIRL TEAM FURNISHES ENTERTAINMENT FOR BIG CROWD; GLOBE TROTTERS AND CARDINALS COMING

The Tri-Cities had a mean job on their hands yesterday afternoon, but managed to pull through unscathed with a 24 to 9 victory over the Bright Star girls from Milwaukee. The biggest crowd of the season packed the Amusement Hall to witness the fray, which though it bore little semblance to basketball was amusing at times.

Ladies Fail to Score

Without any desire to take away any credit from the ladies the nine points with which the visitors were credited were all scored by their coach who took the floor with them in place of one of the girls who was reported unable to play because of injuries.

The Tri-Cities score was kept low by the hesitancy which the players displayed in pressing their attack through the visitors' defense. The girls had a way of getting in the way and with an apparent desire to avoid too forcible contact the Tri-City athletes traveled slowly.

Tough Game Coming

Two of the toughest games of the season are scheduled for the coming Thursday and Sunday. The Minneapolis Globe Trotters come here for the first game and Sunday the Fond du Lac Cardinals, conquerors of the Milwaukee Bright Spots, the Beloit Fairies and other crack fives will be here.

The team will hold an open practice in preparation for the Minneapolis game Tuesday evening and fans are invited to come and see the team work out. Bill Smith will be on hand for the game, and will probably play regularly with the team in all the important games the rest of the season.

Minneapolis, Minn.—The crack Badger basketball five kept its Big Ten record clean Saturday night by sending Minnesota's cagers down to their second defeat in as many conference starts, 24 to 12. Close guarding by Wisconsin and general ineffectiveness in every department but tossing free-throws were responsible for the verdict.

The Gophers worked with Ray Eklund, star forward, back in the line-up, but he was sadly off form and failed to score from the floor. He counted eight of his team's point from the foul line and missed four.

WHITFIELD SAYS IT PUZZLES HIM

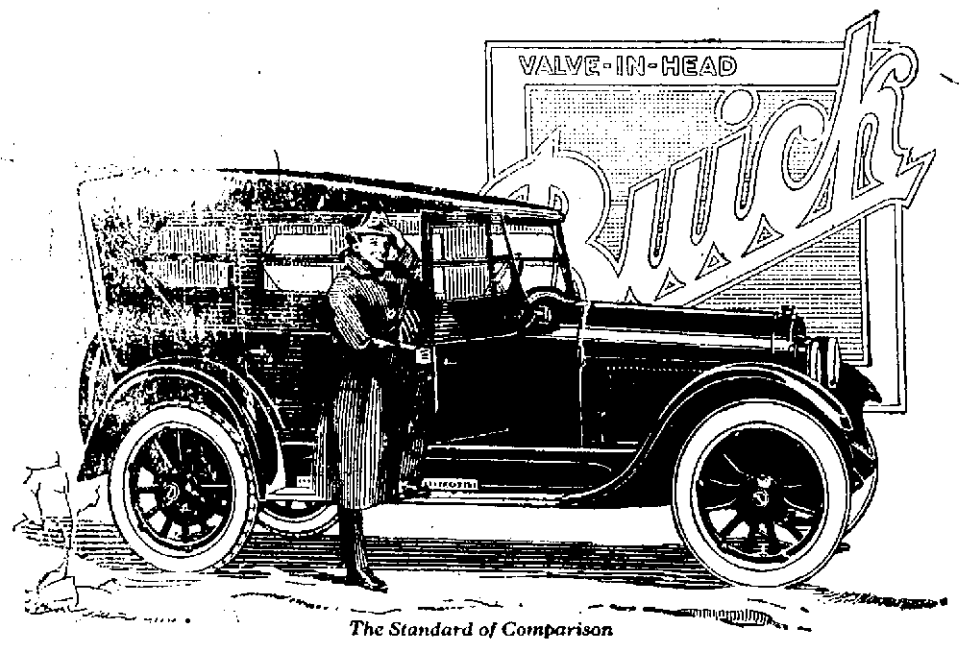
Expresses Wonder at the Prompt Way in Which Tanlac Completely Overcame Stomach Trouble.

"Tanlac has fixed me up to where I feel fine even when I'm out on the job in zero weather," said F. E. Whitfield, Milwaukee, Wis., a track-worker for the Milwaukee Electric Railway, recently.

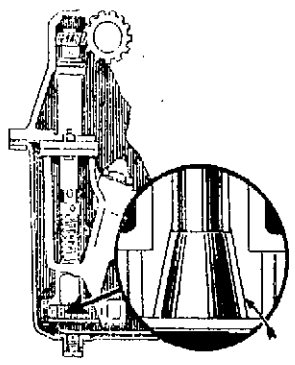
"Before taking Tanlac, my stomach was so upset even the sight of food would often make me sick. A man doing my kind of work needs lots of good food like beefsteak, potatoes, etc., to keep going, but even the lightest meal caused me awful sourness, cramps, and bloating and nearly cut off my breath. I was constipated and bilious and sometimes had dizzy spells and was weak and nervous all over. Often I went to work mornings feeling like I could not hold out till noon.

"How Tanlac can do the wonderful things it does puzzles me. Why, it drove away every trace of these troubles, and now I am eating anything, and feeling as strong and husky as I did when I was twenty-one."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35-million bottles sold.—Advertisement.



The Standard of Comparison



Coldest weather cannot impair the efficiency of the Buick oil pump. This pump is so designed that should the pump gears be held immovable through freezing, the shaft revolves within the gear. The heat thus generated thaws out the frozen parts, restoring gear action and oil flow to normal.

Unusual Winter Comfort

Buick reputation for anticipating your ideas of comfort for all weathers, performance and utility, with models of advanced design is strikingly upheld in Buick open models.

Examination shows how the thoughtful application of simple, practical methods of sealing curtain and windshield joints against wind, cold and rain has resulted in a welcome degree of winter and early spring comfort you never thought possible for an open car.
